THE LEGISLATIVE MILL

By Fred W. Davis.

September 24, 1931.

The mill grinds on. Going now on the third week there still seems to be plenty of questions to discuss. Had this session passed upon nothing but acreage reduction it would have passed into history some days ago. But the governor has presented other subjects through special messages, so the wheels will continue to turn until the session ends—time set now for next Tuesday at six o'clock. Of course, with material to work on the legislature could extend the agreed date of adjournment.

The questions of greatest concern which the governor has recently submitted are the extension of last year's taxes from October until January without penalty, the waiving of penalties on all back taxes, the reduction of salaries and the loaning of $3,000,000 of the Highway fund to the general revenue fund in order to obviate the discounting of warrants. The tax measure has passed the house at this writing and is in the senate hopper and will doubtless be passed. The loaning of the Highway fund has already passed. The house passed the salary reduction bills and the senate killed them.

As usual there is considerable debate upon each and every question coming before either branch of the legislature. Resolutions cause much discussion, also special requests of members wishing to secure special legislation, usually of a local nature. Some members wish to go into many questions, while others wish to confine themselves strictly to the governor's call and special messages. Some wish to reach an early adjournment and others wish to stay on. All such discussions are actuated by the usual combination of sincerity and selfishness. The selfish member sees no reason to be in any hurry to stop his ten dollars per day—especially when money is so scarce. But not every party who wishes to hold on has a selfish motive. Many believe there are some pressing problems which the legislature should take up while it is already in session. They believe the best interests of the state could be served by so doing. While on the other hand not all who wish to reach an early adjournment are chiefly concerned about stopping legislative expenses. Some of them doubtless have clients they can best serve by stopping the legislative mill.

CHANGE IN INTERSCHOLASTIC RULES.

There has been a radical change made in the rules for the Spelling contest in the University Interscholastic League this year, according to Mr. E. H. Stendebach who was elected Director of Spelling in this county at the recent teachers' institute. "Formerly," said Mr. Stendebach, "the contest has been based solely upon the spelling lists issued by the League Bureau, Division of Extension. This year, however, as per precedent set last year, the contest is based not only on this list, but on words in the State Adopted spelling book. Preparation of students for the contest therefore will involve a mastery of words in both sources, the League lists and the State Adopted Text.

"Teachers are also cautioned that the contest involves plain writing as well as spelling. Often a good speller is a poor writer and it is necessary to coach such contestants in plain writing. Every letter in a spelling paper must be clearly legible.

"No more valuable training, in my opinion, can be given our pupils than that involved in adequate preparation for this contest. The words prescribed are all words in common use, and words therefore for which the student has constant use. Moreover, the ability to write a clear, legible hand is an accomplishment which many graduates of our schools fail to acquire; yet in business and the professions, and even in the trades such an ability is of utmost importance. "The Constitution and Rules of the League is now available, and teachers in member-schools may secure a copy by addressing the League Bureau, University Station, Austin."

at the earliest opportunity. So the legislature is but a reflection of the contending forces of business, politics and governmental principles among the outside constituency.

The action of the senate in refusing to reduce salaries came as a surprise to the governor and also the house members. The governor claims he was practically assured by the senate they would pass the measure if submitted. To my mind the question of saving or salaries was not properly approached. What the state needs is salary adjustments. State salaries, as the people now pay them, are not based upon the importance and responsibilities of positions. When the creation of new offices got in full swing it was but natural in creating positions for political friends to make them as lucrative as possible. That this was done is proven by the record. These appointive boards and commissions bear the responsibility of small divisions of the state government. They are rarely ever selected because of technical or special fitness but almost wholly to pay political debts.

Many of these positions should be abolished altogether, and others should have their salaries reduced at least to the level of those who hold positions of equal or greater responsibilities and must bear the expense of making a campaign before the people. In connection with this I will call attention to the fact that a strenuous effort was made at the regular session of this legislature to create a new appointive board at salaries of $10,000 per annum and clothed with authority to employ as many more favorites as they might have desired and pay them practically what they pleased.

In the abstract sense the house was right, but failed to put their desire to retrench in proper concrete form. Much can be saved in reducing some salaries and eliminating others, but it is wrong to put the same proportionate penalty upon an official whose salary barely affords him a living as upon the political pets who fatten at the public pie counter by drawing every month out of the treasury twice as much as they ever earned in their lives before or could earn again if they should lose their public positions.

I will devote most or the last of these articles to a discussion of the acreage reduction law.

IT PAYS TO KEEP COWS FREE FROM FLIES

Southwestern farmers who milk cows lose $3,500,000 during a single pasture season as a result of blood-sucking flies, according to the Rex Research Foundation. These figures are based on a 10 per cent drop in summer milk production, which dairy authorities agree is a conservative estimate of the falling off in milk of cows not kept free from flies, and do not take into account other big losses in weight of the cows and time lost in milking fly-pestered herds.

Most of the damage caused by flies comes in late summer when they are most numerous and when these pests are driven by cool evenings to seek shelter of warm bodies and comfortable barns. Under such conditions, cows are hard to milk, and the tendency for irritated cows to hold the strippings, the portion of their milk which is richest in butterfat, causes a lowering of the fat test of the milk that goes into the pail. Furthermore, the craving of flies for milk results in many of them falling into the milk to contaminate it with filth and disease germs which spoil milk rapidly.

Because these huge losses can be prevented by protecting cows from flies, dairymen find that it pays to spray their milking herds with a good fly spray. Cows sprayed morning and evening stand relaxed in their stalls, are easy to milk, keep up a good flow of milk which is decidedly less likely to become contaminated by flies, and are protected from flies and other insects while they are out on pasture. Thus protected, cows also maintain good body weight which they need to keep them in the best condition for highest milk production in winter.

apple quartered. Garnish with four large ripe unhusked strawberries. Top with a marshmallow half. This, of course, will also be served on a leaf or two of lettuce. If you wish a dressing mix two parts orange and one part lemon juice. Sweeten it well. Just before serving the salad sprinkle this juice over fruit and lettuce.

SIMPLE SUMMER SALADS.

When the day is hot the housewife tries to prepare dinner with as little exertion as possible. Standing over a hot oven is by no means the most pleasant task when the sun seems hotter than the oven itself.

The salad fits into the summer meal exceptionally well. Furthermore, the salad does not need to be one that requires a great deal of effort. Everyone knows how easily a tomato may be sliced and combined with lettuce leaves and mayonnaise to make a salad. Fruit actually lends itself to salads as well as the tomato. An orange cut in thin slices, 1/4 cup watermelon balls and 1/4 cup cantaloupe balls may be served with a French dressing on crisp leaves of lettuce, and everyone will be pleased with the result.

When you have some strawberries try this little recipe. Three or four orange slices halved; one slice pineapple quartered. Garnish with four large ripe unhusked strawberries. Top with a marshmallow half. This, of course, will also be served on a leaf or two of lettuce. If you wish a dressing mix two parts orange and one part lemon juice. Sweeten it well. Just before serving the salad sprinkle this juice over fruit and lettuce.

One trouble with the country is that many people are trying to ride to prosperity on rubber tires.—The Pathfinder.

PINK EYE IN SHEEP INFECTIOUS.

By A. D. Jackson.

The Ranch Experiment Station, near Sonora, has found that Pink Eye in sheep is infectious and can be communicated by passing a swab from the eye of a diseased animal to the eye of a healthy one which results in developing a typical case of Pink Eye within three days. Attempts to transmit Pink Eye in sheep to goats by the same method have thus far failed. A healthy ewe confined in a fly-proof stall with a Pink Eye case developed typical Pink Eye after seventeen days. This ready transmission of Pink Eye by contact is in line with an observed flock of four thousand head of sheep which on June 5 contained four cases of Pink Eye and which three weeks later showed two hundred infected cases. Pink Eye in sheep is not a very common trouble in the Edwards Plateau region, but in the event that cases appear in flocks, they should be isolated as a precaution against further spread.

QUIHI NOTES.

"How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings of good, that publisheth salvation." Isa. 52, 7.

The usual Sunday services at Bethlehem Lutheran church will be abandoned Oct. 4th in order to afford the pastor, the church membership and their friends an opportunity to attend the mission services to be held in Castroville Sunday morning and night.

A splendid literary-musical program was rendered last Sunday night by the Quihi Luther League. A capacity audience was present to hear and enjoy the various numbers as they were rendered—all, without exception, excellently. It is indeed, a gratifying honor to any community to have in its midst young men and ladies competent and willing to stage such a high class and interesting program, as this one was. The excellency of this program is the result of persistent, earnest and intelligent endeavor on the one hand and the appreciative and cooperative spirit of the community on the other hand.

Sunday forenoon and night, Sunday Oct. 11th, the annual mission festival will be celebrated in Bethlehem Lutheran church. In the morning service at 10 o'clock the Rev. K. Konzack of Castroville will deliver a German sermon on subject of the day and at 7:30 o'clock P. M. the Rev. K. Konzack of San Antonio will deliver an English discourse on home and foreign missions. A cordial invitation to come and hear this interesting discourse is extended to all.

Some time in the latter part of October a very interesting lawn social and program will be given at the Lutheran Parish hall at Quihi under the auspices of the Luther League. The committee of arrangements is composed of Mr. Frank Boehle, chairman, Mr. Edwin Grell and Misses Margaret Reitzer and Hulda Oeffinger.

We do job printing.

Thrills served up in true Western style are promised with the advent of "Caught," newest Richard Arlen picture, at the Colonial Theatre on Saturday, for Paramount has crammed full of excitement this story based on the life and adventures of Calamity Jane, female counterpart of Jesse James, who flourished in the rugged West in the day of Wild Bill Hickok. Arlen, as the hero of the story, is an officer in the U. S. Cavalry who is ordered to clear out the gambling hall operated by Calamity and used by her as the headquarters for a gang of unrepenting rustlers. Louise Dresser plays the important feminine role of Calamity. The feminine side of the romantic thread which runs through the plot is played by brown-eyed Frances Dee. The climax forms a rousing finale for a picture that carries a generous measure of pulse-pumping thrills.

"Waterloo Bridge," Universal's much-discussed picturization of the sensational Robert E. Sherwood drama of the same name, will make its debut upon the Colonial screen, Sunday, with Hollywood's latest "find," Mae Clark; Kent Douglass, Enid Bennett and Doris Lloyd in the principal roles. This British-flavored picture of air raids and the love of a London lady of the streets for a young Canadian private, is reported as one of the dramatic gems of the picture capital's current crop. A large cast of brilliant players appear with Miss Clark and Douglass.

"The Magnificent Lie," a story of a great love growing out of a strange deception, is Ruth Chatterton's latest starring picture. "The Magnificent Lie" which will show at the Colonial Theatre, starting Thursday, has three chief points of interest in addition to the unusual plot. It comes as an addition to the list of outstanding Chatterton dramas; it introduces Stuart Erwin in a role in which his laugh-making talents are turned to dramatic importance; it brings forward a new leading man, Ralph Bellamy, long a favorite on stock stages, recently a Broadway star. As a girl of doubtful character, hungry for honest love, Ruth Chatterton has a great opportunity to portray an interesting woman character. The girl a cheap cabaret entertainer, impersonates the romantic ideal of a visionary boy. Her masquerade, starting with a gay wager, becomes tragically realistic. New Orleans is the setting of "The Magnificent Lie."

Colgate Scientists Offer New Hope of Relief for Noise-Harried Public

To Investigate Methods Of Building Up Individual's Resistance To Noise

Will a chocolate bar, eaten at the psychological moment, help to lessen muscular tension and resulting nervous and physical fatigue, produced by the roar of the subway?

Should you worry, while scanning the luncheon menu, about the effect upon your digestion of the riveting machine being used on the building next door?

Will a change in the diet—increasing the consumption of carbohydrate foods—help to make possible a six hour working day with eight hours worth of production?

By Philip Forbes

If you are one of those whose stamina and nerves are worn down by noise—the roar of the subway, the rattle of the riveting machine, the blare of the radio next door, or the songs of our feline friends beneath your window—there is new hope for you in the announcement of an investigation now getting under way at the psychological laboratories of Colgate University, Hamilton, New York.

Previous Research Helpful

At Colgate, under the direction of Dr. Donald A. Laird, Director of the psychological laboratories, scientists are engaged in trying to determine how and to what extent the individual can build up within himself resistance to the noises of this increasingly noise-ridden world. Previous experimental work, extending over the last two years, has shown that certain diets, particularly those rich in carbohydrates (sugars and starches), have an effect upon the system opposite to the ill-effect of noise. This will form the starting point of the new investigation, and before the year is out you may hear that if you are bothered by noise your best remedy is a chocolate bar or a gum drop.

"We have found," says Dr. Laird, "and our findings have been verified by others, that we have to pay a price for noise in the form of impaired digestion, nervous strain and lowered working efficiency. Much can be accomplished through elimination of the sources of noise by architects, builders and engineers, but there is little possibility that harmful noises will ever be entirely eliminated, and the scientific challenge is to discover what can be done by the individual himself to lessen or offset the ill-effect noise has upon him.

In the acousti chamber where tests are made for the effect of continuous, annoying noise upon muscular and nervous coordination. (Right) Dr. Laird putting an amplifying audiometer through its paces. The audiometer is one of the laboratory's electrical noise-generating devices.

"We have demonstrated the depressing or inhibitive effect of noise on the digestive functions, and that some tastes, notably a sweet taste, have a stimulating effect upon those essentials to good digestion, the flow of saliva and the secretion of gastric juices. Similarly, we have shown that noise increases nervous and physical fatigue, and that fatigue is offset by eating carbohydrates such as common cane sugar. All of these lines of investigation will be combined this year to show to what extent a wisely selected diet will offset the harmful effects of noise."

A "Miniature Factory"

A group of typical business girls and students at Colgate University will be employed as subjects for the experiments. A "miniature factory"—a machine which reproduces working conditions requiring dextrous repetitive operations with close coordination of eye and hand—is located in an acousti chamber, or room that can be made sound-proof. Electrical noise-generating apparatus has been mounted on a portable truck for easy transportation around the laboratories. Other equipment includes apparatus for measuring stomach contractions and the flow of saliva and the gastric juices.

A possible result of the present investigation, Dr. Laird points out, is that it may contribute to a shorter working day without a corresponding decrease in production. This would rest upon a demonstration that a change in the diet involving a greater consumption of sweet foods and other carbohydrates, will offset the nervous and physical fatigue caused by noise, thus increasing efficiency and hourly output.

MISSION RALLY

On Sunday, October 18, the annual mission rally of St. Paul's Lutheran church will be held. There will be three services on that day. The morning worship will be held in the German language, the Rev. Professor Adolph Streng being the speaker. This service will begin at the usual time, 10:30.

The afternoon will be given over to the Sunday school, when a program of a missionary character will be presented by the children. This service begins at 3 o'clock.

The Luther League will present a program at the night service, which will begin at 7:30. A special speaker for this service will be announced later.

The choir is drilling on special music suitable for the occasion.

A Christian is expected to be interested in the work of the missions as a matter of course. Love for the Savior embraces the spreading of the Gospel by every means. Help us on this day to help others.

Up to September 28th there had been shipped 19 cars of maize of the 1931 crop. That equals the total shipments for 1930 of that grain. Oat shipments for 1931 have reached 28 cars as against only four for the entire year 1930. While the prices are disappointing, there has been a reduction in freight rates on grain of from 25 to 30 per cent, depending on length of haul, and this helps some to even matters up.

MISSIONARY MEETINGS.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist church have met regularly each week during the month of September. The business meeting was held at the church on Monday afternoon, Sept. 7th, the business of the month being transacted in the usual way.

Mrs. D. H. Fly, assisted by Mrs. J. A. Herger, was hostess to the W. M. S. in their social meeting on Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 15th. Quite a crowd of members and visiting friends spent the afternoon very pleasantly and profitably by piecing a quilt. The hostesses served delicious ice cream and angel food cake to the busy crowd.

On Monday afternoon Sept. 21, the Voice program meeting was held at the home of Miss Bertha Newton. A number of interesting papers were given, the topic being "Our Congo Field." At the close of this program Mrs. J. A. Herger presented the subject of Stewardship in a very interesting manner.

The Bible study was held at the home of Miss Lora King last Monday afternoon, Sept. 28th. The book, "The Teaching of Jesus on Human Relations", was the study taken, Mrs. D. H. Fly being leader.

BAPTIST NEWS NOTES.

Last Sabbath was Promotion in our Sunday school. The attendance registered a 25 per cent advance, which was most pleasing to the Pastor and officers. All who came on last Sunday are urged to continue regularly, and much will result to all concerned. A decrease, however, was observed in the senior boys classes. This should not be so. Our young men should show more interest in spiritual matters. We therefore beg our boys to return promptly and take a firm place in the life of the Bible school. Our ladies who trained the children for the exercises have our deepest gratitude for the splendid show made. God will richly reward such labors.

On next Sunday morning the officers and teachers will be in charge. We hope for a very large attendance and high enthusiasm in all departments. The fathers and mothers are urged to join the adult department and thus set the right example to the children. At eleven o'clock the Pastor expects to speak on "Present Day World Perils." Unquestionably we confront conditions of sufficient seriousness to cause every one to stop, think and pray. Come and hear this discussion. Evening services will be held at 7:30 o'clock. Always have an earnest soul appeal. Better come. The house of God is the best and safest place for you. Be not deceived. Satan has his traps set for prowling birds. God's leadership is the way of wisdom. He that soweth to the flesh shall of the flesh reap destruction; but he that soweth the Spirit, shall of the spirit reap everlasting life.

FOR THE BEEKEEPER.

Several writers in the August issue of Beekeepers' Item dwell at length on the virtues of the Caucasian Bee as to her gentleness and also as to her ability as a honey gatherer, one even claiming extreme length of tongue to the Caucasian bee, that enables her to work successfully on red clover blossoms. How about it in this section, and the Brazil and Abrocho brushes that bear the honey on top of the flower?

One Apiarist writes that in some country districts of England it is customary to swell bee-hives out with beer before hiving the swarms, because it would be difficult to persuade a Britisher to leave a home that had been swelled out with beer. One man called the speaker down with the remark that ere long the whole male population of the United States would be trying to get into English beehives.

Biediger is called down in the bee papers because he uses honey for sweetening coffee, tea, chocolate and everything else. They call it a messy combination because as yet they do not know honey such as we get in Southwest Texas.

My Good friend, Geo. W. Bohne, of Luling, Louisiana, acknowledges receipt of a 3-pound can of Huajilla honey, but being a honey producer himself, and getting only black, ill-tasting honey, he could of course not afford to give our Huajilla honey his unstinted praise.

He said though that he invited the whole bunch of Southern Louisiana Beekeepers and together they sampled the "pride of LaCoste" and he can being empty threw it out into the adjoining apiary, where the bees treated such an uproar the next morning that two of his best colonies filled their traveling bags with honey and circling about took a last look at the label on the can and left for the West.

Twenty-four hours later: Two swarms clustered near the LaCoste honey house only long enough to exchange courtesies and then they left for the Huajilla brush farther west. Two weeks later: The poor Louisiana bees came too late, the Huajilla bloom was gone for this season, cat-law and mesquite furnished but little honey, and now the Brazil and unflower yield ran inferior honey only, and the bees are wailing like the children of Israel, "Why did we leave a land of plenty for such a desert?"

An Arizona editor says that grasshoppers are making inroads on the alfalfa fields.

To this, Col. Nist of Ft. Sam Houston suggests the canning of the grasshoppers as fish bait for those of us who like to go fishing. I would suggest that in this great poultry country the canning of grasshoppers and scabbards as a poultry feed for the winter months might not be amiss. Let the great canning plant at Natal investigate the scheme.

HOMEMADE FLOOR WAX.

One pound beeswax, one pint turpentine, two table-spoonsful linseed oil. Shave the wax, add the turpentine, allow this to stand until the wax is dissolved, but do not stir the mixture at first.

Add the linseed oil when the wax is dissolved by the turpentine, and stir vigorously. Do not use as much as of other preparations. Rub well into the wood with a weighted mop or by the hand mop. honey. I advised throwing old cans in a strong brush fire that would destroy the remnants of honey and also the solder holding the cans together, and therefore prevent a probable spread of bee diseases, and the chance of furnishing a breeding place for mosquitoes.

Now Mr. Pauli does not speak to me. What is wrong?

Beekeepers should be getting busy with their exhibits for the State and County Fairs. Let the folks see your honey on exhibit, you may be remembered with some orders later.

Are you going to requeen those bee colonies? Queens are cheap, or if you prefer you may raise them yourself. A young queen in fall is the most important thing in the apiary. She will be a vigorous layer next spring, getting you a strong colony to gather the early white honey, and if sufficient room is given them they will rarely swarm out, while old queens will mostly do so in spite of all anti-swarming devices put in by the beekeeper.

Mr. J. H. Protheroe of Rustburg, Virginia, tells us that heather honey that is dark, thick, etc., sells in Edinburgh and London for 60 cents per 1 pound section, while water white clover sells for 20 to 25 cents in the same market. We tried that white clover honey throughout 1930 when we had no real honey here, and we lost quite a few customers. But what would the British say if real good honey would be set before them, such as the bees gather from the Huajilla, mesquite and Catsclaw brushes?

Research Laboratory has dived into history and proves to us that Bexar, formerly written Bejar, was a province in Spain named after the honey bee. Later the name was adopted for the town of Bexar, now San Antonio, Texas. Later on some descendants of the Bexar nobility came to England and changed the name to English, i. e. Bee. In the course of some years Bee County, Texas, was named after a scion of the Bee family. Therefore, we have in Texas one county named after the bee in Spanish and another after the bee in English, both big honey centers.

After reading of the findings of Mr. Parks relative to the past history in Spain touching on the honey bee, I feel like sending Mr. Parks into upper Alsace and there dive into dusty old records, and to try to unravel the mystery to me why and when my predecessor adopted the name as it is now used, evidently having just kept the first syllable "Bie" for "Biene" for honey bee, and by what farsightedness they could see that in later years a scion of said "Biene" family could get it into his head to try to dig a living out of the bee business and change the name into "Beedigger" (Biediger).

The first half of 1931 has taken a heavy toll of leaders in apiculture. Colorado Co-operative Beekeepers lost Frank Ranchfuss, a loss that cannot be replaced. Mr. Southworth is gone from Iowa forever. Arkansas has no more Wesley Jones and C. O. Yost the Alabamians are mourning for. Many others are gone and no one knows how soon comes our turn. LOUIS BIEDIGER, LaCoste, Texas.

"I was looking the other day for some notes put aside in a drawer. This was full of old letters, photographs, and autographed menu cards—souvenirs that I have never had the time to sort out again since I bundled them together in haste one August when Britain went to war.

"So occupied, and a little wistful, I came upon a note from one of the earliest colleagues of my working life. I never lost my affection for him, but he gained promotion to one town and I to another, and there began the inevitable separation of interests. And then we were just bad correspondents and (you know how it is) fresh interests filled our lives. A little more care and that good cheerful friendship would not have been lost. ## Restricted Farming.

If the law stands the test of the courts, Texas farmers will not be allowed to plant more than 30 per cent of land cultivated in 1931 to cotton in 1932 and 1933, and after that cotton must not be planted on the same land two years in succession. The law was passed ostensibly as a "soil conservation" measure, but all know that its purpose is to increase the price of cotton. Louisiana and South Carolina have passed laws prohibiting cotton planting in 1931 on condition that States growing 75 per cent of the cotton shall pass similar laws, a condition that the other States will not meet. It is freely asserted by most lawyers that no law prohibiting or restricting cotton acreage can be enforced and many predict no efforts at enforcement will be made. It does seem absurd for a law to declare soil conservation by restricted or prohibitive cotton planting to be a public necessity only on condition that other States pass similar laws to conserve their soils. It is hoped, though, that the agitation may result in reduced cotton acreage and higher prices, but believed that the hope for improved conditions still rests with the farmers themselves rather than with so-called "farmers' relief legislation."

Peddler's Tax Repealed.

Despite the fact that most Texas legislators are lawyers and that both branches of the legislature employed high-priced lawyers to advise them and could have had free advice from the Attorney General's office, numbers of bills, including the peddler's tax law, have been declared unconstitutional. Realizing the mistake in passing the peddler's tax law, the second special session repealed it.

Reduced Living Costs.

Before complaining of reduced earnings, every one whose earnings have been lowered in recent years, should remember that average costs of the necessities of life have fallen one-third since 1928 and that $1.00 will buy as much now as $1.50 bought at that time. It should also be kept in mind that the most thrifty people—those who have tried to put something away for the inevitable "rainy day"—have little cause to fear any great suffering. In Texas the exception to this are notably few.

Huge Pecan Crop.

The Texas pecan crop is estimated at 32,000,000 pounds, that of 12 Southern States being estimated at 74,120,000. The Texas crop is nearly 40 per cent above the five year average. If promptly marketed it should bring about $3,200,000, about one-third of which will be paid to those who gather the crop. This will be a big item in solving the unemployment situation in the State.

Cotton Pickers Scarce.

Employment officers report a much larger demand for cotton pickers than can be supplied. Many unemployed in towns and cities are refusing to go to the cotton fields, preferring to remain idle and risk being cared for by public charities. All kinds of reasons are given, but back of it all is unwillingness to get away from the towns and cities for the hard work of the cotton fields.

Farm Foods Plentiful.

Where there is a regularly employed woman assisting farmers and farmers' families in solving problems of food preservation in Texas there is little complaint of lack of food for the approaching winter. The county farm demonstrators have had opportunities for proving their worth and have done so. Better discharge almost any other county officer than the valuable woman who goes to farm communities and homes and personally shows how farm people can assure themselves comfortable living at home.

Stamp Stickers.

Commercial interests have had 8,000,000 picture stamps made to be attached to letters and envelopes sent out from Northern Mexico advertising the attractions of that section. This is an old idea, but one that has been allowed to fall somewhat into disuse lately. Texas can learn something from Mexico. Why not return to the use of the picture stamp sticker?

Traffic Arrest Rule.

The law requiring officers to be wearing blue or dark gray uniforms and diamond-shaped badges when making traffic arrests was intended to protect the public from being affected by persons posing as officers, but at times the requirement really modifies traffic laws. Near Victoria a truck carelessly overloaded with cotton crashed a bridge railing and pulled the load across the roadway obstructing travel for several hours, but officers who assisted in clearing the roadway were powerless to make arrests, though they had all proofs of truck violation. They lacked only the uniforms and the badges.

Increasing Taxes.

According to investigations made for the Presidents' Club of Dallas, cost of State government in Texas has increased 1,700 per cent in fourteen years. County and city government costs also have increased and numerous district costs have been added to the burdens of an over-taxed public. The report indicates a need for a general revision of State, county, city and district expenses. Tax burdens can become unbearable.

Which Is Preferable?

Protests are being made against the use of prison labor in building roads in the Davis Mountains, the objections coming largely from the Texas Highway Branch of Associated General Contractors. Under present road-building methods expensive machinery has replaced most of the day laborers. A recent law authorizes use of prison labor on highway projects. At present most prison labor is engaged in farming. Is it better to have such labor in competition with farmers or with road builders?

Riding Through School.

The girl who has taken nine ponies with her to Texas Technological College with the intention of paying her way through school by giving riding lessons and hiring the ponies to students, will get more out of her college work than she could get from books alone. She will get practical lessons in taking care of herself and a pride in doing so that will be invaluable.

Canal Survey Authorized.

The United States War Department has allocated $30,000 for a survey of the Intracoastal Canal from Corpus Christi to Point Isabel, including a survey of the Arroyo Colorado project from the canal to Harlingen. The Intracoastal Canal completion is much nearer realization than most Texans a few years ago thought it would be.

Poultry Outlook Improves.

The poultry business appears, from all reports, to have touched bottom, and is showing decided improvement. Prices for eggs and poultry are advancing and the low prices of recent months are not expected again soon.

Denver Construction Started.

Work is well under way along the Fort Worth and Denver extension from Childress through Wellington and Shamrock to Pampa, and it is to be completed in time to handle the 1932 crops. More than almost anything else, railroad building stimulates prosperity in the sections the roads enter.

Slashing Salaries.

Jim Hogg County, Hebronville, the county site, has made the most drastic cut yet reported in county salaries, having reduced previous salaries 20 to 35 per cent. It is stated that this is done to meet the "exigencies of the times," and that it is better to reduce salaries than increase tax rates.

Grow Long Staple.

The growing of long staple cotton in Texas has not been favored to any great extent by planters because buyers heretofore have bought on a flat price with little or no regard to grades. The proposal to employ Federal licensed cotton classifiers and to sell cotton in future strictly on grades is meeting with favor.

Fixing Mohair Prices.

Representatives of 33 Texas warehouse firms in a meeting at Kerrville have agreed to hold some 6,750,000 pounds of mohair handled by them, this being 85 per cent of the Texas clip, at not less than 25 cents for grown hair and 40 cents for kid hair. The statement was made that Eastern mills would welcome stabilized prices to prevent losses to growers, bankers, mills and manufacturers.

TAKE GOOD CARE OF THE WORK HORSES.

By V. M. Couch.

With the competition which tractors are giving to our work horses, it is very necessary that they be given every opportunity to show up to the best advantage. It is only just that they be kept in the best possible condition throughout the entire season so that their duties may be done with the greatest efficiency.

Farm work horses naturally carry less flesh during the summer than in winter, and this is a desirable condition, allowing that they do not get too thin in flesh or in a condition such as will lessen their strength and ability to do good work. Plenty of wholesome feed given at regular hours is of first importance.

A spacious yard or small pasture is much better than a hot dirty stable as a resting place for the work horse during the night. Allow the horses, if possible, to have access to fresh water as often as they like, since the privilege of drinking water in small quantities refreshes a horse much more than when they are compelled to drink a large amount at less frequent intervals.

Farmers some time take horses off pasture and put them into the rut of a season's work, expecting them to do as much as horses that have been on a grain ration and worked regularly all summer. This occasionally happens to be the case when tractors have been used and following this work comes a job for which horses are more suitable. A good deal of suffering for the horse, trouble for the owner and a loss of much time will be saved if careful attention is given to fitting the collars and care of the shoulders of the work horse. The writer well remembers when some horses were worked nearly throughout the season with their shoulders so raw and sore that it was difficult to get a collar on them in the morning. Tractors and automobiles have surely saved a great amount of suffering and hard work for the horse.

Early seeding of winter oats is necessary to get good returns from the crop. Experiments show that late seeding is often responsible for the low yield of fall-sown oats in the South.

Hedge by Saving

With the problems of life we all have to tussle, And those who succeeded must get up and hustle. To fight in this world and meet competition, Brains have the odds; they're the best ammunition. But keen minded men go broke every day By playing the market the very wrong way; And others as brainy and equally strong Have lost all they had by doing things wrong. The Hondo State Bank has found that it pays To hedge by saving in various ways.

This Woman Lost 64 Pounds of Fat

Mrs. H. Price of Woodside, L. L. writes: "A year ago I weighed 190 lbs. I started to take Kruschen and now I weigh 126 and never felt better in my life and what's more, I look more like 20 years old than the mother of 2 children, one 19 and the other 18. Every one of my friends say it's marvelous the way I reduced."

To lose fat with speed take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—don't miss a morning—85 cent bottle lasts 4 weeks—get it at W. H. Windrow's or any drug store in America. If not joyfully satisfied after the first bottle—money back.

MEDINA COUNTY WELL HAS OIL AND GAS SHOW.

Genard Brothers No. 2 Crawford in Medina County is drilling at 2,145 feet in the Anacacho Lime, the formation having been topped at 2,105 feet, according to latest reports from the well. The well had a good showing of both oil and gas at 1,750 to 1,755 feet in the Escondido sands. Operators who saw the showing at 1,750 to 1,755 declared it one of the best showings ever encountered in that section of Medina County, and predict that it will encourage further drilling in that area.—Wednesday's Express.

HONEY FOR HEALTH.

We as beekeepers know that honey is good not only for the appetite but for our bodies. In many parts of the world honey is better known than here in the United States, although we are the largest producing country. Some time ago a priest coming from British East Africa stopped in our store and told an interesting story. It seems that medical supplies are quite scarce here. When natives and whites are "low" for one reason or the other they take what is known as "The Wonder Drink". A tablespoon of honey, the juice of a lemon and a glass of very hot water. Honey being an invert sugar is assimilated into the blood stream immediately without the aid of digestion. Try it. Now comes another use for honey. Dr. A. W. Shaw of Benton, Michigan, tells the following.

"Perhaps 1000 years before Columbus landed on the shores of Cuba, wild bees were making honey there from the Agualdo blossom which grows through the year on the Sierra Maestra Mountains."

"The Sibony Indians used this wild honey from cave to cure snake and poisonous insect bites."

"They handed down to the white man these facts. Today the Cuban Railroad employees use the wild mountain honey to heal all kinds of sores caused by insects that become infected."

"It is only a few years ago a Spaniard hunting in the foot hills of this mountain range came upon a group of natives digging from the crevices things but it does, I am convinced. Now here is food for thought. Surely some of you beekeepers are familiar with this honey or honey doing good as medicine. I hear from you.

My grandmother, the wife of Charles F. Muth used to make honey that she used on open sores. I was told her it would draw out of the floor. People would come to her that heard of it and get cured. Are we missing a good bet in the of honey?—Clifford F. Muth in the keepers item.

American consumers of meat are demanding pork products with a lean in proportion to fat than formerly. The present demand is for a 200 pounds, rather long, fairly well finished, and with a proportion of lean meat.

The law couldn't get Mr. Carle for what he did so it is going to him for what he didn't do.—The P. finder.

Comfort Keeps Step All Through This House

THE YOSEMITE—DESIGN NO. 29

ESPECIALLY suited to a narrow lot this rectangular house is equally a demonstration of the acme of practicability. It would perhaps win no prizes in an architectural contest unless the judges chanced to be of the old school. But no one who examines the floor plan, and who considers the positive rugged strength of these common brick walls, will deny that it offers unusual promise of living comfort, fire-safety, economy in heating and a minimum expense of upkeep. And these are features not lightly to be dismissed.

This type of house is one of the most economical to build. Its walls are straight and unbroken on all sides. There is no intricate or special brick-work required anywhere. Walls, porches and roof are simple and practical. It is planned for the man of moderate means who wants a substantial home with the maximum of living room for the least possible cost and who is willing to do without gingerbread decorative effects for unadorned home comfort and convenience.

Comfort begins with this home on the big open living porch where all the family may enjoy the cool of evening and never once feel crowded. And in winter, with a log fire burning in the open grate simply for the spirit of contentment it brings, the large living room offers equal accommodation. The dining room will always be ample for all demands and the kitchen is just big enough to make it convenient.

On the second floor are three commodious bedrooms, well lighted, cheerful, and each with a large closet. The bath is also both conveniently located and amply large, while outside is a sleeping porch of liberal dimensions over the service porch below. In the hallway is a linen closet which would delight the heart of any housekeeper.

The Common Brick Manufacturers' Association, Cleveland, Ohio, can furnish complete drawings for this design. Leaflet on brick construction sent upon request.
